

HOME RECORDING
LIVE
POST
GEAR
EDUCATION
STUDIO
MIX MEDIA
MIX GUIDES

WHO WE ARE

Distributed in 94 countries, Mix is the world's leading magazine for the professional recording and sound production technology industry. Mix covers a wide range of topics including: recording, live sound and production, broadcast production, audio for film and video, and music technology.

FEATURED STORY

NOW CALLING: SUBMISSIONS FOR CLASS OF 2010

Home » Recording » Recording: Tracking » Classic Tracks: Blue Oyster Cult's "(Don't Fear) The Reaper"

SAVE THIS EMAIL THIS PRINT THIS MOST POPULAR

ShareThis Comment

Classic Tracks: Blue Oyster Cult's "(Don't Fear) The Reaper"

Jun 1, 2009 12:00 PM, By Jeff Forlenza

It still ripples through our culture. Released more than 30 years ago, Blue Oyster Cult's "(Don't Fear) The Reaper" has become a touchstone. It is still heard on classic-rock stations, in movies (Halloween and others) and even in videogames (Rock Band).

Blue Oyster Cult, circa 1976, from left: Allen Lanier, Eric Bloom, Albert Bouchard, Joe Bouchard and Donald "Buck Dharma" Roeser
Photo: Sandy Speiser

And who can forget Saturday Night Live's "more cowbell" skit, which parodied a behind-the-scenes look at the track's production.

Appearing on BOC's Agents of Fortune album, "(Don't Fear) The Reaper" peaked at Number 12 on the Billboard Pop Singles chart in October 1976 — surprising for a hard-rock band known for its literate lyrics. But like a velvet hammer, "Reaper" is paradoxically soft and powerful. It's built around an immediately compelling guitar riff. The vocals speak of bravely facing one's mortality.

ONLINE EXTRAS LISTEN:
MP3 of "(Don't Fear) The Reaper"

READ:
All our "Classic Tracks" in one spot!

Blue Oyster Cult got their start in 1967 in upstate N.Y. when guitarist/vocalist/songwriter Donald "Buck Dharma" Roeser and drummer/vocalist/songwriter Albert Bouchard started a band. They met up with Sandy Pearlman, who was a contributor to the rock magazine Crawdaddy, and he became the band's manager, producer, lyricist and mentor. Pearlman created the band's name and signature icon (a cross merged with an upside-down question mark). He also came up with stage names for the bandmembers; only Buck Dharma kept his nickname.

The band recorded their first demos in a New York City 8-track jingle studio owned by David Lucas. Pearlman brought those demos to his friend Murray Krugman, who was a product manager at Columbia Records. Krugman arranged an audition with Clive Davis, who signed them to a record deal in 1971. BOC's Columbia debut was based on the demos recorded at Lucas' studio. The next two albums, which achieved Gold Record status, were recorded in Columbia/CBS Studios. During this time, the band became famous for their live shows — even sharing the stage with Black Sabbath on the notorious "Black and Blue" tour — but they had yet to score a hit single.

The band wanted more autonomy on the choice of recording studio for their fourth studio record, Agents of Fortune, and chose to work at Record Plant New York City. "Cheap Trick had been there, Aerosmith had been there, Blondie was there," recalls Roeser, who

Most Popular

Sound for Lost, Season 6
All our "Classic Tracks" in one easy-to-find spot!
Sylvia Massy's Gear Stories
iPhone Apps
SoundWorks Post Videos
Post for Avatar

ADVERTISEMENT

Polls

Past Results

TalkBack

What is the most interesting sound design you've heard in a videogame? Neither online or in the box? E-mail the staff at mixeditorial@mixonline.com.

ADVERTISEMENT

Duality... the scalable large format console

Available in 24, 48, 72 and 96 fader configurations.

Find out more about the legendary SSL analogue consoles

READ, WATCH, LISTEN, PLAY

Blog	Webcasts
Video	MixLine
Photos	MixLine Live
TalkBack	Mix Guides
Mix Nashville	Music/DVD Reviews

MOTU Ethno 2

MOST RECENT VIDEOS

Sylvia Massy: Gear, Gear, Gear!

still tours with BOC. "We felt that we needed to access this pool of success and talent so that we could sell some records."

Before heading into the Record Plant, each member of the band acquired newly affordable "pro-sumer" TEAC 4-track recorders to aid in their songwriting. Using his TEAC 3340S reel-to-reel and a couple of mics, Roeser recorded a demo of "(Don't Fear) The Reaper" in his spare room.

Roeser was thinking of his own mortality when he wrote the song. "It's a song about fate," he explains. "The idea of the song came from a worry that I wasn't going to live long. The riff came out of the ether; it just came to my fingers. Then the first two lines of the lyrics came the same way. I recorded some of the vocals, and then the idea of the song came to me. That was my first experience with multitrack recording. It definitely changed the way Blue Oyster Cult wrote and arranged songs. Once we started writing songs using the multitrack recorders, our demos got more fleshed-out and thought-through."

Pearlman, who currently teaches at McGill University in Montreal, noticed the change in the band's songwriting and arranging. "In 1976, a whole bunch of cheap, but fairly decent, multitrack recorders were available," he says. "The members of the band began making more elaborate home demos. One of these demos was Buck Dharma's 'Reaper.' I heard that demo, and I thought, 'This is one of the greatest songs I've ever heard!' I immediately recognized the guitar riff was not just box office but something extremely deep."

1 2 Next

This Month in Mix

Check out what's inside...
Digital Edition

» Purchase back issues of Mix

NAMM 2010—Cakewalk A-Pro Series MIDI

Controllers

- Check out other videos

THE BRIEFING ROOM

Mix Briefing Room, a virtual press conference offering postings of the latest gear and music news, direct from the source. Visit the Briefing Room for the latest press postings.

ADVERTISEMENT

Introducing the UAD-2
SOLO/Laptop.

UNIVERSAL AUDIO

Want to use this article? Click here for options!

© 2010 Penton Media Inc.

Be the first to rate this | comment [?]

You might like:

Classic Tracks: Ray Parker Jr.'s "Ghostbusters"

2 more recommended posts »

Acceptable Use Policy

Add New Comment

You are commenting as a Guest. Optional: Login below.

DISQUS COMMENTS

- DISQUS
- Connect
- Twitter
- OpenID
- YAHOO!

Type your comment here.

Name Website (optional)

Email Subscribe to all comments by email

Post as Guest

Showing 2 comments

Sort by Subscribe by email Subscribe by RSS

brianmoore 08/31/2009 03:03 PM

This particular song is, without a doubt, the iconic wonder-hit that to me defines BOC. It contains the essence of all of their potential as a band and as what some of us dream of being part of one day. History!

Flag

Cosmo 07/01/2009 09:54 PM

Buck Rules!

Flag

blog comments powered by Disqus

Mix Books Newsletters

Modern Recording and Mixing

This 2-DVD set will show you how the best in the music industry set up a studio to make world-class records. Regardless of what gear you are using, the information you'll find here will allow you to take advantage of decades of expert knowledge. Order now $39.95

Mastering Cubase 4

Electronic Musician magazine and Thomson Course Technology PTR have joined forces again to create the second volume in their Personal Studio Series, Mastering Steinberg's Cubase(tm). Edited and produced by the staff of Electronic Musician, this special issue is not only a must-read for users of Cubase(tm) software, but it also delivers essential information for anyone recording/producing music in a personal-studio. Order now $12.95

MIXBOOKS

Modern Recording and Mixing
Classic Tracks
Critical Listening for Audio Pros
Pro Tools DVD: Volume I
Ruthless Self-Promotion in Music Industry
Networking Strategies for the New Music Business
The S.M.A.R.T. Guide to Producing and Engineering Music

DIRECTORIES

AES
NAB
Winter NAMM
Summer NAMM
Education
NSCA
Musikmesse

ENEWS

MixLine
MixLine Live
MixTech
Events
Sign Up Now

RESOURCES

Site Index
About Mix
Contact Mix
Advertising Information
Subscribe Now
Customer Service
Reprints
Terms of Use
Email Webmaster

INDUSTRY ORGS

AES
NAB
NAMM
NARAS P&E Wing
SPARS
Women's Audio Mission
Hearnet
House Ear Institute

MIXGUIDES

Consoles
Studio Monitors
Microphones
Audio Education
Studio Design

RELATED SITES

EM
Remix
TEC Awards
Sound & Video Contractor
Live Design
Broadway Sound Master Class
Digital Content Producer
Broadcast Engineering
Penton Media

© 2010 Penton Media, Inc. All rights reserved.

HOME | CONTACT US | CUSTOMER SERVICE | FOR ADVERTISERS | FOR SEARCH PARTNERS | PRIVACY STATEMENT |